Jon—appreciate your views on this.

In a nutshell we have had several request to release a copy of the Charters Towers Flying-Fox DMP (with more requests today).

We have sought advice from Governance and Strategy who have advised that while the DMP can be released, we should as protocol seek the council's support to do so.

The added complication is that the DMP cross-references to other council documents, so the DMP read by itself is not particularly useful and to be properly understood would need to be read in conjunction with supporting council documentation. In seeking approval to release the DMP, we should additionally ascertain the councils' willingness to also release their accompanying documents.

The Minister has given in-principle support to the release of the DMP and the department has no objections to this.

I support, as proposed by Geoff, approaching Charters Towers Regional Council in the first instance to seek the agreement to the release of both documents, noting that they may not support release of either or their document. Should we not receive their support, I believe we should still release the DMP and refer any requests for the council's supporting documentation to the council itself or through RTI.

Just wanting to check if you have any objections to this approach.

Tamara,

Pls see advice from Ken Davis on release of the CT permit below. In essence it supports established practice to only do so following checking with Council that it had no concerns.

Ken has pointed out that should Council not have concerns there would still be some standard redacting of information (eg the name and signature of the delegate).

In this particular case the permit refers to other documents submitted by Council. For anyone to fully appreciate what is permitted under the permit they would need to have these as well. IN my view the Council should also need to be asked their view on releasing these. It is certainly possible that they may have a different position on these to the permit.

Pls note the Ministers position as conveyed by Troy is: Geoff, further to our conversation, the Minister is of a view that we should disclose as much as possible - providing we do not breach any privacy considerations. As the Minister has reiterated, the code and conditions for council are robust for a reason, and will be strictly adhered to.

On this basis and given the advice from Ken I propose that we seek the view of Council on release of the documents

I would appreciate if you could check with the DG to ensure he supports this before we do so. Note that RSPCA has today been is seeking a copy of the permit

Subject: Charters Towers Damage Mitigation Permit

Geoff,

I have received input from my Privacy Officer and RTI Services and advise as follows:-

Does privacy apply to flying-fox roost management permits issued to regional Councils?

EHP has obligations under the Information Privacy Act 2009 (the IP Act) regarding the collection, use, management and disclosure of personal information. Personal information has a broad definition under the IP Act and is essentially any information about an identifiable individual (i.e. whose identity is apparent or readily ascertained). Information about other entities (e.g. companies, organisations, local Councils) is not personal information and the IP Act does not apply.

In this case, as the flying-fox roost management permit has been issued to a Regional Council, the IP Act does not apply and there are no applicable limitations under privacy regarding EHP's disclosure of the information at issue (i.e. the Notice of Decision and Permit).

We have not identified any provisions under the Nature Conservation Act 1992 and the Nature Conservation (Wildlife Management) Regulation 2006 which specifically either restricts or requires copies of such permits to be made accessible to members of the public. However, you could consider whether or not the permit could be disclosed administratively, rather than through an application under Right to Information.

Are there any other restrictions on disclosing copies of flying-fox roost management permits issued to regional Councils on request?

Section 19 of the Right to Information Act 2009 (the RTI Act) provides that information may be accessed other than by application under that Act, e.g. under an administrative arrangement made by the agency. Therefore, a copy of the permit could be disclosed administratively, provided it is eligible under EHP's Administrative Access Policy and Procedure (click on the hyperlinks to access these documents).

In the majority of cases, permits issued by the department should be able to be released administratively (on request), unless it is not in the public interest to do so. For example, there is concern about the interest of third parties or legal impediment to the release (e.g. breach of confidence, privacy, copyright).

While the third party with respect to the documents in this case is the Council, and is itself subject to the RTI Act, we recommend you seek their views to confirm they have no concerns with the release of these documents. We also recommend you contact the delegate whose signature appears on the documents, as it is RTI Services' common practice to remove signatures (except those of Ministers or Directors-General) prior to release under an RTI application.

Ultimately however, decisions whether or not to release information under the EHP Administrative Access Policy are at the discretion of the Executive Director, Director and/or Manager. Given the sensitivities surrounding this matter, it would also be appropriate to brief upwards regarding any releases of the permit.

Hi Ken

As discussed, for your consideration prior to advising Geoff Clare (and Rebecca Williams, who was also the delegate for this particular permit)

This issue has been considered by both the Privacy and RTI areas of EHP.

Does privacy apply to flying-fox roost management permits issued to regional Councils?

EHP has obligations under the Information Privacy Act 2009 (the IP Act) regarding the collection, use, management and disclosure of personal information. Personal information has a broad definition under the IP Act and is essentially any information about an identifiable individual (i.e. whose identity is apparent or readily ascertained). Hope this assists.

Ken,

See below. I would appreciate updated advice on this. In the past we have only released information regarding such permits outside of RTI with the consent of the permittee or to persons who had demonstrated standing under judicial review.

To my knowledge we have not released any outside of RTI under the current government.

It ought be noted that most of these permits are issued to councils. I understand dealing with councils do not apply to the Information Privacy Act

Can you please provide advice if there is any reason why the details of this permit cannot be released, with or without the consent of the Council (as permittee).

I can provide a copy of the permit should it assist.

Kieran Lewis

Dear Keiran,

The community has a right to know whether or not the action by any council is within the scope of the permit issued by the EHP and they have the right to demand the immediate cease of activity if it exceeds the boundaries of the permit. How is it possible to know whether the council exceeds its direction without the disclosure of the Damage Mitigation Permit by the EHP? We have a right to know what your department approves without having to apply and wait for months (after the fact) for a "Right of Information" assuming you actually approve the request for the RI. When did we inherit a government that is not accountable to its people?

The request was for the disclosure of a damage mitigation permit for an action in a public place by a local Council approved by a State Government Department (EHP). It cannot qualify under privacy in any circumstance as this is not a private action. The State's refusal to disclose the Damage Mitigation Permit is deliberate so as to avoid public scrutiny. The State's refusal to release a document that would disclose whether Andrew Powell, the Queensland Minister For EHP, has or has not approved an action that is animal cruelty or an action that is guaranteed to lead to it.

It is my conclusion that the State EHP is hiding behind privacy in order to prevent scrutiny of what it knows to be immoral and inhumane animal cruelty that is a direct result of its poorly authored 2013 legislation for the dispersal of native Flying Foxes. Your refusal to disclose demonstrates that the State Government is not intent on the prevention of animal cruelty during the dispersal of Flying Foxes and the that it most likely advocates it.

Since this State Government has demonstrated that it can legislate without consideration for human rights, there seems little to no hope that it can offer any consideration for animals. This Government demonstrates deception when claiming it acts in the interest of Health and Safety. If it was the motivation of the State to prevent the risk of infection to a human being from the far less than 1% of the flying fox population that may have lyssavirus, you would educate people to act to seek medical advice in the incredibly rare event they be scratched or bitten by a flying fox. The prevention being a series of injections... hardly life threatening when put in its truthful context. There is no risk and the hysteria created by your government will not prevent any unnecessary infection since relocation is not prevention - education is. The death of any individual due to your inaction after relocation in regards to education will see the Minister and Premier held liable. The lies in regards to Hendra also do not stand scrutiny as you cannot contract Hendra from Flying Foxes. If the state were interested in public safety, you would act to require all horses (introduced by man and not native - responsible for more than 130 times more Australian human fatalities than Flying Foxes) be vaccinated. As for your desperate claims relating to mental health due to flying foxes, you should focus on banning motor vehicles, bars, restaurants and dogs which far exceed noise levels and any other possible health risk of a bat. Since there are so many lies generated by this government in contradiction to its own Health website, there seems little that can be believed of anything being stated from this department, which is even more reason that disclosure should be forthcoming.

I request the immediate full response to my correspondence and request.

Regards,

Thanks for your request for a copy of the damage mitigation permit provided to Charters Towers Regional Council for flying-fox management.

As DMPs involve information that may come under privacy regulations, this is not a request the department can assist with at this time.

However, the public may be able to access certain government information via the Right To Information process. Advice on this process is available at <http://www.ehp.qld.gov.au/about/rti/index.html>.

Please approve the following response. Also, In the response do you want me to email a copy to Police@ministerial.qld.gov.au?

Dear [Sch4 - Personal information]

It is Charters Towers Regional Council's responsibility to ensure that it carries out activities in a lawful manner. The "flying-fox roost management permit" was issued under the Nature Conservation Act 1992 and its subordinate legislation and allowed the council to utilise methods outlined in the Charter Towers Regional Council, Flying Fox Management Plan.

The 'flying-fox roost management permit' does not authorize the "take" of flying-foxes. In addition it contains conditions that relate to the welfare of the animals. The framework is designed so that dispersals occur in a humane way.

The flying-fox roost management permit is not approval under the Queensland Weapons License Act 1990 or any other legislation.

The issue you have raised regarding discharging a category A firearm (paintball gun) within a residential area falls within the portfolio responsibilities of the Honourable Jack Dempsey MP, Minister for Police, Fire and Emergency Services. As such, a copy of your correspondence has been passed on to him with a request that a reply be forwarded to you at the earliest opportunity.

- Dear Sir/Madam, I was wondering if the DMP for the current Charters Towers bat dispersal includes the use of firearms by local council officers? Given that paintball guns are classified as CatA firearms in QLD and are subject to the same standard's as other firearms I would think not! The following is a link to youtube of the Brisbane TEN News from 10 Dec 2013 which clearly shows in the graphic behind the presenter a council officer using a paintball gun to shoot at flying foxes. Even if he wasn't shooting at the animals, the intent was there and in a public place discharging a firearm.
